

Company To Start Work On Uranium Mine Near Poconos

Monroe County is being eyed as a possible uranium source, it was disclosed last night. In fact scientists are interested in the whole Pocono Mountains area, especially the region lying roughly between Wilkes-Barre and Mauch Chunk.

Nothing very factish has developed yet, but the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Co. will begin work on a "pilot" uranium mine near Mauch Chunk in a month or two, according to company president Robert V. White.

The exact spot of the drilling hasn't been made public. White said the Atomic Energy Commission also plans test drilling for the precious ore in a wide area lying roughly between Mauch Chunk and Wilkes-Barre.

One test area he named as the "Pocono Plateau."

The plateau, he said, extends from Effort Mountain on Route 115—inside the Monroe County line—to Temple Hill, near Mauch Chunk.

Tests indicate that diggings in the area will be worth the expense of the project. The aim is to determine whether large-scale production of uranium is feasible.

AEC experts have been investigating the Mauch Chunk area for about two years, White said.

However, geologists have been aware for 20 years that uranium exists in the area in some quantity. Lehigh University geologists have written a number of these on the subject, White said.

The Lehigh company will start with one tunnel. "If the results are promising another tunnel will be added," he said.

Scientists do not expect a large find, White said. He added that the exact location of future test drillings has not yet been established.

The scientists are considering not only the plateau, but also any other promising areas in the Poconos.

So far, geologists' tests on quantity have been inconclusive.

If someone hadn't forgot to turn off Arthur Mahlon Price's geiger counter he might be a rich man now.

And if he can get a local electrician to fix the blamed thing he may be yet.

Price, an active 80-year-old man who's been in the auto and farm implement business in East Stroudsburg for decades, learned last night that the Atomic Energy Commission is nosing about the Poconos on the track of uranium.

The Price family evidently owns one of the two geiger counters in the county.

One is out at Stroudsburg High School, in the custody of teacher Joe Kovarik. The gadget was purchased recently out of what Monroe residents affectionately term "the Ten Nights in a Bar-room fund."

The school geiger counter works, but probably doesn't have nearly so romantic a history as the Price geiger counter. And uranium isn't everything.

Price bought the geiger counter two years ago because he "wanted one."

He paid $84 for it. It wasn't very big—10 inches by six by four, rather like a fat cereal carton—and it ran on batteries.

Price geigered around his farm at Minisink Hills, and scrambled over the rocks at Delaware Water Gap with his electronic "ear."

The thing emitted neither tick nor click.

Sometime later Price and his wife, Dr. Nina Price went on a vacation which took them to Chicago. There Price strolled into the Museum of Natural History with his geiger counter.

In one of the cases was a chunk of uranium ore. The elderly man unbuttoned his geiger counter and put it near the uranium. The thing clacked away with almost a roar.

A museum guard put an end to further experiments, but Price at least had his answer; his geiger really worked, and he'd "heard" uranium.

Price found no uranium on the rest of the trip, but he didn't look too hard.

Back home in Monroe County, wife Nina later treated a patient for an ailment which led her to suspect lead poisoning. The doctor had her patient's well water checked. It contained lead.

Where there's lead, there's likely to be uranium, the Prices reasoned. When they had time, the Prices prospected around the well area—Arthur with the geiger counter and Dr. Nina with a geology hammer—but finally gave it up. No ticks or clicks.

Mr. Price would have gone right on prospecting around Monroe County except for a friend's forgetfulness. The friend left the geiger counter on and it ran down.

For a long time it lay idle. Finally Price managed to purchase new batteries for it.

With the new batteries installed, the gadget still refused to work. An electrician found a dangling wire.

"Fix it," he was told.

"Can't," he answered, "without a diagram of the wiring."

At that point Price wrote to the company he'd bought it from. The letter was returned. The company had either folded—or else found uranium and given up selling geiger counters.

In view of last night's disclosure of AEC activity in the Poconos, Price said he was going to look around the Stroudsburgs today and see if there isn't some electrician who knows what to do with a dangling geiger wire.

Ike, Mac Discuss Pattern For World Peace

Truman Calls For Buildup Of Air Force

Washington (AP)—America's air power buildup must be pushed forward to keep the Communists from "plunging the world into war," President Truman said last night.

Commenting briefly on "startling technical advances" made in military aviation, the President said that only by such development "can we build up the power which is necessary to keep aggression and conquests in check."

Truman's speech was prepared for the Wright Memorial Dinner of the Aero Club of Washington honoring Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle for his life-long services to aviation. He presented to Doolittle the Wright Memorial Trophy in recognition of his contributions as a civilian to aviation.

Truman spoke of the difficult decisions confronting presidents on international air routes, and made what might have been a suggestion to President-elect Eisenhower to get ready to handle "hot potatoes."

The President must approve actions of the Civil Aeronautics Board on certificates dealing with international air routes.

"One of the results of this system is that it gives the president a good many hot potatoes to handle," the President said. But, he added, "the president gets a lot of hot potatoes from every direction, and a man who can't handle them has no business in the job."

Truman said that from April 12, 1945, which is the day he took over as President upon the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, to Sept. 30, 1952, the route mileage of United States overseas carriers increased from 75,000 to 240,000, and other operations figures have gone up in proportion.

But he said the most "startling technical advances" have been made in the military field.

Two Children Still Missing

Naperville, Ill. (AP)—Authorities yesterday ordered a fresh search for two children, missing 10 days, after pursuit of earlier leads led to a sheriff's conclusion they had been abducted by "some nut."

A new inch-by-inch search was decided upon after drainage of two quarries failed to reveal any trace of Jean Petersen, 6, and Edward Rosenfield, 3.

Sheriff Rollin Hall of DuPage County said he is convinced the children were picked up by "some nut." He ruled out kidnapping for money or revenge but said it was likely they were abducted by a childless woman or a sex deviate.

Hall said he believed the youngsters, if still alive, are somewhere in Naperville, a Northern Illinois community of some 7,000 about 30 miles west of Chicago.

NATO Chieftains Slash Proposed Defense Program

Paris (AP)—In the face of warnings from their military commanders, North Atlantic diplomatic and political leaders yesterday cut to ribbons the proposed 428 million dollar Western defense building program for 1953.

They said such a sum might wreck their nations' economic stability.

Informants reported the request by NATO's supreme commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, for 428 millions to spend on building air bases and ground defense had been slashed to 210 millions. They added it might be cut still further at today's closing meeting of the NATO Council.

Twins, Joined At Tops Of Heads, Separated In Dramatic Operation

Chicago (AP)—The 15-month-old Brodie Siamese twins were separated last night in a dramatic, unparalleled 12½-hour operation that climaxed more than a year of medical preparation.

The twins had been joined extensively at the top of their heads. The separation was the first successful one of its kind in medical history.

The boys were given anesthetic at 7:50 a.m. (CST) at the Illinois Neuropsychiatric Institute, part of the University of Illinois Medical Center on Chicago's West Side. They were separated at 6:26 p.m. They left the operating room, alive and in critical condition, at 8:30 p.m.

Additional surgery and patchup work was required on each twin after the separation.

A spokesman at the hospital said, "The ultimate outcome of the operation is as yet unknown."

The tiny patients, Roger Lee and Rodney Dee Brodie, of Moline, Ill., were taken to the pediatric ward after the operation.

There, for the first time in their short lives, they were placed in separate beds.

Their condition was listed as "critical," a state regarded as natural in view of the protracted surgery.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Royt Brodie, watched tensely as the babies emerged from the operating room and were rolled past them to the pediatric ward.

"It sure looks good to see them apart," said Brodie, a farmer and meat cutter, who with Mrs. Brodie had waited in the hospital throughout the long operation.

The Brodies are parents of four other children, all normal. Mrs. Brodie spent much of the day in the pediatric ward, taking care of the youngest of their children, Barbara Ann, 8 weeks old.

The operation was carried out by a medical team of at least 15. Included were neurosurgeons, plastic surgeons, anesthesiologists, pediatricians and nurses. Laboratory technicians also stood by.

Doctors said the odds were against the twins survival from the start but that the boys were "unbelievably hearty."

Stanley Ison, dean of the University of Illinois College of Medicine, said the twins still had a "long way to go" before their survival is assured.

He said the post-operative period usually is more critical than the operation itself.

The spokesman said that a detailed account of the history-making surgery will not be available until this morning. He explained:

"The members of the operating team are exhausted."

Two of the surgeons, including the head surgeon, did not leave the operating room during the entire operation.

Cost of today's surgery and eight preparatory operations was borne by the university without cost to the parents.

In comparison, the successful separation of twin girls born Sunday in Mt. Sinai Hospital in Cleveland was relatively simple. The girls were joined at a point where the chest and abdomen meet by a thin band of flesh, small vessels and cartilage. No vital organs were involved.

The Brodie twins appeared to have their heads joined wholly to each other at the top. But it showed the babies had separate brains and separate brain coverings, at least in part.

Tito Breaks With Vatican; Attacks Stepinac Appointment

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, (AP)—Premier Marshall Tito's Communist government cut diplomatic relations with the Vatican yesterday, charging in effect that the recent nomination of Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac to the College of Cardinals was a slap in the face.

The Holy See was accused anew of hostility toward Yugoslavia and interference in her internal affairs. Deputy Foreign Minister Alex Bebler called in the Vatican's charge d'affaires, Msgr. Silvio di Oddi, to notify him of the break and asked him to leave as soon as possible.

Yugoslavia has had no diplomat at the Vatican since last year, when Charge d'Affaires Oren Ruzic packed up and left an otherwise deserted legation building. Yugoslavia was the last of the Communist nations with which the Vatican had diplomatic relations.

Vatican officials reserved comment pending the receipt of further information.

The rupture capped six years of dispute in which the strong-featured, sparsely-framed Archbishop Stepinac has been the central figure. Convinced by a Tito court of collaborating in World War II with the Germans, Italians and domestic foes of Tito, he was freed conditionally last December after serving five years of his 16-year sentence. Now 54, and a "former archbishop" in the view of Yugoslav officials, he is limited to the work of a parish priest in his native town of Krasic.

Ex-Red Tells Of Commie Infiltration

Washington, (AP)—A former Russian official told investigating congressmen yesterday he helped direct a calculated Soviet program to infiltrate Communists into the American government, educational foundations and other intellectual circles.

And now, Igor Bogolepov said, these Communists are barring the entry into this country of hundreds of anti-Communist Russian intellectuals, including himself, who want to "help the American people fight Communism."

Bogolepov, who said he was formerly a Red Army colonel and Foreign Office official, testified before a special House committee investigating tax-free educational and philanthropic foundations to determine whether their funds are being used for subversive purposes.

Earlier yesterday the investigators were told that John Foster Dulles, secretary of state-designate, had heard reports that Alger Hiss was "a sort of fellow traveler" at the time he recommended Hiss for president of the Carnegie Endowment for international peace.

This testimony came from Alfred Kohlberg, a wealthy New York importer and chairman of the American China Policy Association.

Gales Damage Giant Liner United States

London (AP)—Howling gales sweeping across Britain slammed the giant liner United States against a pier at Southampton yesterday and delayed her departure for home.

The crack new 53,000-ton American luxury ship suffered a dented bridge wing. Seven tugs fought to get the vessel away from the pier, but finally had to give up the struggle against the ferocious winds.

In some places the gale blowing across Britain reached hurricane force, with gusts of more than 100 miles an hour. Small coastal vessels hurried for shelter. Ashore, the storm left a trail of roofless houses, broken fences and tangled road traffic.

Kenny Admits Lying About Seeing Strollo

New York (AP)—Democratic Mayor John V. Kenny of Jersey City purportedly lied to a New York grand jury, then broke down and admitted a secret rendezvous with a notorious waterfront racketeer.

A record of the nine-month-old grand jury testimony was read by the New York State Crime Commission yesterday at its inquiry into waterfront racketeering in the world's largest port. Kenny has refused to appear in person at the commission's public hearings.

After he made a clean breast of his midnight meeting with Anthony (Tony Bender) Strollo, Kenny was asked in the grand jury session:

"Now, Mr. Mayor, I'm going to be very, very blunt with you. Will you tell this grand jury why you lied the last time you were before them?"

"Yes, I will," was the answer attributed to Kenny. "Because all my life I have been clean. I have never been associated with anybody of a poor reputation."

"I didn't want to have anybody believe that I would be involved with anybody with a reputation of that kind and I—I am certainly sorry. I regretted it as soon as I left here."

New York (AP)—A woman juror in the trial of 16 secondary Communist leaders was ordered removed yesterday after the defense claimed she had "prejudged" the case and told her view to others.

Increased Use Of Steel To Be Allowed

Washington (AP)—The government yesterday authorized makers of automobiles and other civilian goods to increase their use of steel in the second quarter of next year up to 70 per cent of the amount they consumed before the outbreak of the Korean War.

The Defense Production Administration said this is the highest allocation of steel since the present mobilization program began.

It is about 16 per cent higher than for the third quarter of this year.

Ralph Trigg, acting DPA chief, said the bigger allotments should permit in the second quarter:

One—Production of 1,250,000 passenger cars and 315,000 trucks.

Two—Increased construction of small schools, hospitals, power and transportation facilities and public works.

Three—The highest rate of highway construction ever achieved in this country, but still slightly below requested levels due to a tight supply of structural steel.

Four—Full development of the atomic energy construction program as planned, along with meeting full defense needs of defense agencies.

Five—New housing construction at the rate of one million living units annually.

Six—Production of 9,000 freight cars a month, the highest rate since scarce materials were put under government control.

Sawyer Hits Waste In U.S. Effort Abroad

Washington (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, back from a 20-country study in Europe, yesterday criticized American agencies abroad for "confusion and wasted effort . . . too many people doing too many things in Western Europe."

The time has come, Sawyer said in a report to President Truman, to take the emphasis off foreign economic aid and place it on trade within the framework of long-term economic thinking. He said Europeans agree.

Sawyer reported there has been tremendous recovery in countries aided by the United States, and Europe can go on to prosperity if it keeps faith in itself. He said he and his mission found European conditions better than they had expected.

The United States must avoid dictating or even guiding European policies, the secretary wrote, but should stand by "to give the encouragement which comes from having an understanding and helpful friend at hand."

He added emphatically that nothing the United States does to help Europe, such as cutting tariffs, should undermine the American economy because "a prosperous America is necessary not only for us but for the rest of the free world . . ."

Fires Take Heavy Toll

North Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—Eight of a nine-member family perished yesterday in a kerosene explosion and fire which leveled their small frame home.

They were Hilton Bryant, 29; his 31-year-old wife and six of their seven children, ranging in age from 9 months to 9 years.

The only survivor, 12-year-old Shirley Bryant, was reported to be in serious condition. She was burned over half of her body.

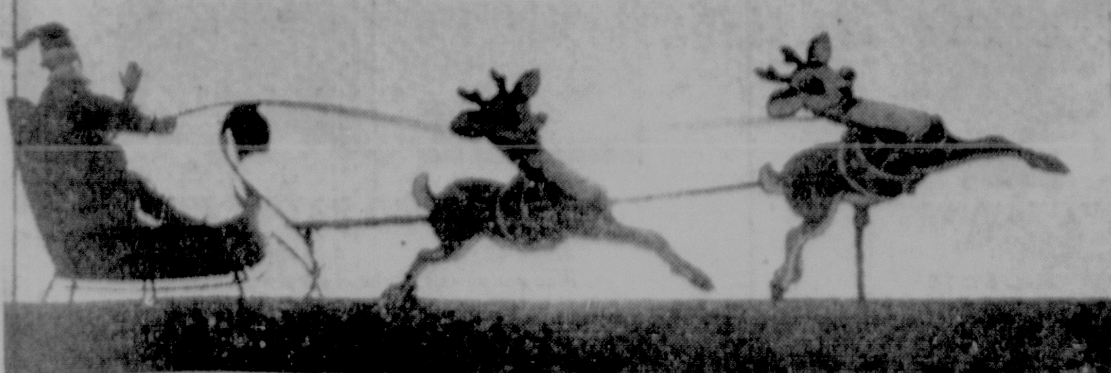

Trenton, N. J. (AP)—Three small children burned to death last night when flames roared through their two-room, one-story frame home in outlying Hamilton Township.

Police listed the victims as Samuel Robinson Jr., 4, and his two sisters, Jacqueline, 2, and Rosemary, 4 months.

Allied Bombers Hit North Korea

Seoul (AP)—Allied warplanes smashed an officers' training headquarters and three Communist supply centers in North Korea last night.

Ground action was minor.

ELABORATE DECORATION—With Christmas only a week away, holiday decorations are springing up all over the Poconos. One of the most attractive is the Santa and reindeer scene atop the roof of the George DeHaven home near Snyder'sville. After buying a real sleigh from Joseph Hufford, a nearby farmer, DeHaven and his daughter, Mrs. Richard Weaver, went to work making Santa Claus out of old clothes and cut out the reindeer from a design by Robert Logan, Stroudsburg artist. The scene is spotlighted at night and attracts a large number of children and adults. The DeHaven home is located on a township road.

Korean Formula Holds Center Of Two-Hour Talks

New York (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower and Gen. Douglas MacArthur discussed across a luncheon table yesterday the problem of how to achieve peace in Korea and the rest of the world.

"We discussed the possibility of peace in Korea with particular reference to the world situation, in which, of course, such Korean peace would have to be determined," Eisenhower said afterward.

Eisenhower and MacArthur conferred for more than two hours as guests of John Foster Dulles, secretary of state-designate, in Dulles' town house on Manhattan's Upper East Side.

The President-elect described it as a "very enjoyable luncheon." MacArthur said it was a "very pleasant reunion with the President-elect."

U.N. Adopts Resolution On Tunisia

United Nations, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly agreed overwhelmingly last night to urge France and Tunisia to negotiate a settlement of their differences on Tunisian demands for self-rule.

The full 60-nation Assembly meeting in special night session, formally adopted by a vote of 44-3, with eight abstentions, a mildly worded Latin American resolution calling for French-Tunisian negotiations.

This resolution was adopted previously by the Assembly's Political Committee instead of one from 13 Arab and Asian nations who had proposed a U. N. good offices commission to supervise the dealings.

The Arab-Asian bloc voted for the 11-nation Latin American resolution after its own plan was rejected.

But spokesmen for the group expressed disappointment that the U. N. did not take a stronger stand in demanding that France lift martial law in Tunisia and accept U. N. good offices.

The Soviet bloc abstained with its five votes on the ground that the resolution was too weak and did not assure independence for the Tunisians.

Despite the clear intimation that Eisenhower and MacArthur would confer, the actual meeting came with dramatic suddenness and no advance public notice.

Eisenhower's announced schedule for the day ended with a 1 p.m. appointment with Dulles.

MacArthur, who commanded the troops in Korea until ousted by President Truman last year as Far East commander, responded that he was grateful "for your interest in my views."

The exchange drew a barb from Truman that if anybody had a reasonable plan for ending the Korean fighting he should communicate it to the present administration.

Three persons were treated Tuesday for injuries in the dispensary at the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg.

They were Gordon Neisen, of Swiftwater, who suffered a sprained left ankle during basketball practice; Mary Frances Hack, 15 months, of 184 Grove St., East Stroudsburg, who sustained burns of the left leg when she backed into a hot grate; and Mrs. Olive Stetler, 22, of 405 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, who had a piece of metal removed from her right eyebrow after it became embedded while doing housework.

250-Voice Chorus Sings 14 Christmas Carols, Hymns

East Stroudsburg students and the borough Exchange Club unwrapped their Christmas gift to the community last night in the form of a giant, 250-voice concert by High School and Junior High School choruses.

Under the direction of Miss Bettje Goodall, vocal music instructor at the two schools, the students sang 14 traditional carols and Christmas hymns illustrating the "Customs of Christmas in Song."

The students filed into the junior high school auditorium in a candlelight procession, "Angels We Have Heard on High."

As the combined choirs sang each of the songs, a tableau illustrating the practice was enacted behind a large, cheesecloth screen on the auditorium stage.

Customs described and the songs illustrating them were the following:

The Gift—"Christmas Is Coming," an Old English carol; The Tree—"O Christmas Tree," traditional German song; The Bells—"A Ukrainian 'Carol of the Bells'; The Card—the modern "Musical Christmas Card" by Cunkle; a series of seasonal songs dealing with St. Nicholas; The Carol—"God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen;" The Star—"Behold That Star" by Cunkle; The Candle—"Christmas Candle" and "In the Glow of the Candles;" The Herald—a spiritual, "Go Tell It on the Mountain" and Richard Kountz's "Hasten Swiftly, Hasten Softly;" The Birth—"Neidlinger's 'Birthday of a King' and Franz Gruber's 'Silent Night.'"

Cooperating with Miss Goodall in the presentation of the combined choral concert were teachers on both junior high and high school staffs and numerous students who worked as stagehands and costume assistants for the tableaux.

The annual concert is co-sponsored by the schools and the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club.

The concert will be presented again this afternoon for the student body in the junior high auditorium.

Elks To Arrange For Celebrations

East Stroudsburg Lodge of Elks meets tonight at 8 at the home with Ted D. Hoffman, exalted ruler, in charge. This will be the last regular session for the year and a large attendance is anticipated. Entertainment and turkey platter will follow the business meeting.

Plans for the Christmas and New Year celebrations will be announced.

Court Refuses To Prohibit Wire-Tapping

New York, Pa. — The Appellate Division upheld yesterday dismissal of a suit to prohibit New York City from engaging in court-sanctioned wire-tapping.

The suit was brought by Harold Black, an artist, and supported by the Civil Liberties Union.

Black's suit named as defendants the mayor, the comptroller, the police commissioner and the New York County district attorney. It argued that wire-tapping was unconstitutional because it violated protection against "unreasonable search and seizure."

Supreme Court Justice Thomas L. J. Corcoran dismissed the suit. The Appellate Division upheld dismissal unanimously without opinion.

Black's attorney, Emanuel Redfield, said he would seek permission to appeal to the State.

Heart Attack Claims Life Of Hunter

Henry Miller, 50, of 30 Rose St., East Stroudsburg, died at 12:45 a.m. yesterday at his home.

He had suffered a heart attack while hunting Saturday near Wooddale. He was brought home and had been under the care of a doctor since then.

He was the son of the late Jacob and Ann Van Why Miller; member of St. Matthew's Catholic Church, East Stroudsburg, and the church Holy Name society.

Surviving are his wife, Anna Whitmore Miller; two sons, Edward, at Tripoli, Africa, with the Air Force, and John, with the Air Force at Santa Rosa Island, Cal.; four daughters, Mrs. Alice Peters, Mrs. Emily Sargent, both of Stroudsburg; Mrs. Ernest Weiss, East Stroudsburg, and Mary Catharine, at home; four grandchildren; two brothers, Jacob, of Wooddale, and Lewis, Marshalls Creek; four sisters, Mrs. Ruth Tabler and Miss Ella Miller, East Stroudsburg RD1, Mrs. Hattie Smith and Miss Mattie Miller, both of Butler.

Services will be announced later by the Lanterman funeral home, East Stroudsburg.

Entertainment Is Presented

Pupils of the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College campus laboratory school presented a Christmas program at 1:30 p.m. yesterday for an audience of parents, student teachers and friends.

Children from all laboratory classes participated in the program which was arranged and supervised by a group of 22 student teachers.

The program was presented in the new college gymnasium on campus.

Farm Output Hits Record

Washington, Pa. — American farmers produced a record volume of agricultural products this year despite handicaps of drought, reduced acreages and mostly lower farm prices.

Furthermore, most of the crops were of generally excellent quality. This achievement, which had been forecast earlier, was reported in the Agriculture Department's final crop report of the year. It described the job done by farmers as "astounding."

The production of crops—food, fiber, tobacco, etc.—was the second largest in history, being surpassed only in 1948. A record output of livestock and livestock products—meat animals, eggs, poultry, dairy products and wool—pushed over-all farm production to a new high.

Some peoples of the world do not use salt with their food.

Civil Defense Test Slated Tonight

The chief of all-Pennsylvania Civil Defense police will be an observer of tonight's alert and disaster exercise in Monroe County.

Before the red alert sounds at 10 p.m., just after a low-flying plane passes over, Capt. Emmett J. Donovan will be at the main headquarters in the Court House, Stroudsburg. He will be only one of a delegation from State C.D. headquarters who will be on hand to inspect and check the outcome of tonight's test of county preparedness against enemy attack.

The alert will start at about 10 p.m., but it will be a "fanning out" type of alert, with word shooting out from the main headquarters at the Court House. It will be received and passed on over radio and telephone by township and borough officials.

About five minutes later the all-clear will sound.

C. D. Director Fred W. Davis will take his entire group of officials and observers on a tour of county C.D. facilities to see how they are operating during the exercise which follows.

The observers will stop principally at zone reception and first aid stations.

County headquarters will be under guard, as would be the case in a real emergency. Heading the group of guards—members of the county's Marine Corps League will be Donald E. Witcraft, of Shawnee-on-Delaware. In event of real disaster, this same outfit would act as emergency police for any area in the county which needed help.

On a standby basis during tonight's test will be the county's Aviation Group under Harold F. Hamlen of East Stroudsburg Airport.

In Monroe are 28 pilots and owners of 14 planes who have pledged cooperation. If they should be needed to fly passengers, supplies or medical items when needed.

The official inspection group is scheduled to leave the Court House shortly after 9 p.m. Probably two groups will be formed, since visits to five installations must be made within 45 minutes.

Among those scheduled to go on the inspection tour, in addition to Director Davis and Capt. Donovan, are J. Willard Lord, State Eastern area C.D. director; Elmer D. Christine, VFW State vice commander and other VFW men from the local post; American Legion local representatives; staff members of The Daily Record and Radio Station WVPO; and these members of the C.D. advisory board, C. R. Gillam, Frank S. LaBar, Byron Deacon, Edgar B.

Hamm, Dr. L. T. Powers, C. Elwood Huffman and Paul Dellaria.

These were the instructions issued to citizens in the county for tonight's test:

"Cooperate with the auxiliary police and wardens who are serving you."

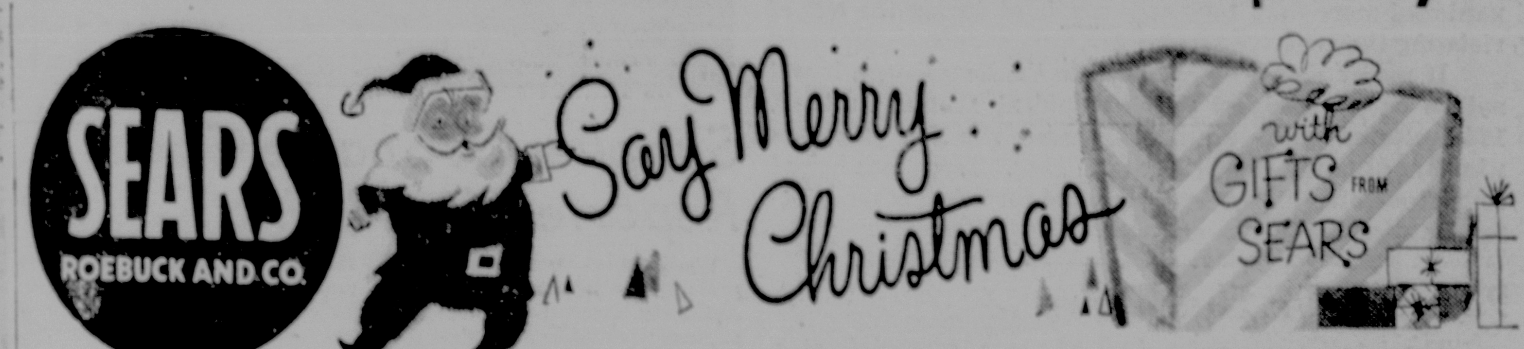

"If you must be on the highway in a car when the red alert sounds at 10 p.m., please pull off to the side, turn off the ignition and wait until the all clear sounds. If an emergency arises, notify your township or borough C. D. director or the State police."

"Please go indoors during the alert. Don't stand outside watching for something to happen."

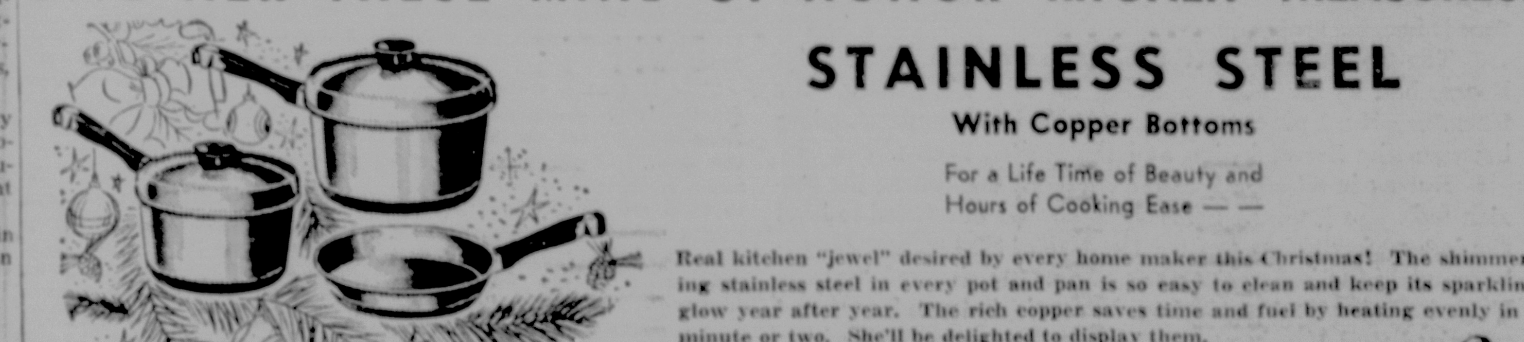

"Traffic will be flowing normally and there are no restrictions contemplated during the 10:30 p.m. to 11:15 p.m. exercise."

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

With thirteen meetings on the social calendar, forty-seven choir practices in the churches, and a baker's dozen school entertainments all on the night of a scheduled air raid drill, this should be a lively night in the county, don't you think?

A man from Mars might have trouble reconciling the sounds ringing up and down the village streets this night. The chatter of package-laden shoppers along the sidewalks — the swelling strains of "Joy to the World" from the lighted churches — the childish voices in "Peace on Earth" from the little angels in cheseecloth rehearsing for their Christmas pageant —

And then the wail of the sirens, the darkening of houses, and emptying of the streets, and simulated terror alive in the night.

Like two pictures taken on one negative—like taking one act from one play and another act from another—like playing the bass of one symphony and the harmony from a popular song—there's something incongruous about the whole set-up.

"Fear not, for I bring you tidings of great joy"—and the answering dialogue—"Take cover, please. Draw your blinds." Seems this drama needs some editing, somewhere.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:15 a.m.

Swiftwater Ladies Aid Has Christmas Program

Swiftwater—The social room of the East Swiftwater Reformed Church was aglow with Christmas spirit, Thursday night, when the Ladies Aid Society held their annual Christmas party. A brief business meeting preceded the entertainment.

While Mrs. Lewis Heckman read the Christmas story, each member having a key word placed a silver offering for the Bethany Orphan's Home. "The Legend of the Christmas Candle" was then read by Mrs. Walter Coffman, followed by a talk by Mrs. William Foose about Christmas in different lands. Mrs. Francis Coffman gave a humorous poem, "Pa Did It," and Mrs. Walter Davis read "Legend of the Poinsettia." A quartet — Mrs. Foose, Mrs. Heckman, Mrs. David Nelson, and Mrs. Russell Shick — sang "Silent Night," followed by group singing of carols.

The Christmas tree was donated by Mr. and Mrs. John Lindstedt, and the gifts were piled at the base. Santa distributed the gifts, then refreshments were served by Mrs. Francis Coffman, Mrs. George Main, Mrs. Walter Rowe, and Mrs. John Lindstedt. The tables were gayly decorated with Santa's sleigh and reindeer centerpieces, greens, and candles on white cloths. Miniature trees with candy wrapped in colored cellophane were the favors, and refreshments consisted of Christmas candle salads, cookies, ice cream, cake and beverage.

Members and guests present included: Mrs. Arthur Kresge, Mrs. John Lindstedt, Mrs. George Hahn, Mrs. Francis Coffman, Mrs. Clarence Rinker, Mrs. Elwood Warner, Mrs. William Foose, Mrs. Helen Schmidt, Miss Beatrice Bush, Mrs. Harry Coffman, Mrs. Russell Shick, Mrs. Lewis Heckman, Mrs. Harry Heller, Mrs. David Nelson, Mrs. Walter Rowe, Mrs. Bates, Mrs. Pearl Werkheiser, Mrs. Charles Metzgar, Mrs. Edward Metzgar, Mrs. Stewart Rowe, Mrs. Walter Davis, and Mrs. Earl Learn.

Mizpah Class Shares Bounty With Those In Need

The Mizpah Bible Class of the Baptist Sunday School, following a long established custom, brought gifts for the needy instead of gifts for exchange to their meeting held recently in the Sunday school rooms.

The baskets of gifts, all wrapped for Christmas, were given to Dr. Nina Mae Price for use in her work. Dr. Price was a guest at the meeting and told of some of her visits where their gifts would not only fill a need but lend encouragement.

The class also decided to remember its own shut-in members with gifts, and presented their teacher, Miss Jean Lowry, with a tree decorated with money. She also gave gifts to those present.

The devotions were led by Mrs. Harry Hinton with scripture and a Christmas story. Mrs. Norman Savage gave the prayer.

Mrs. Hinton was in charge of the refreshments served from a table decorated in the Christmas motif with a favor at each place.

Those present were: Miss Jean Lowry, Mrs. Mary Kunkle, Mrs. Enos Sipthoth, Mrs. Floyd Clifton, Mrs. Russell Strunk, Mrs. John Butts, Mrs. Frank Majestic, Mrs. May White, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Savage and Ruth Ann, Mrs. Elsie Counterman, Mrs. Allen Paul, Mrs. Annetta LeBar, Mrs. Mary Clifton, Mrs. Ada Poorstra, Mrs. Rosalie Schmidt, Mrs. Grace Meyer, Mrs. Pat Communal, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Shook, Mrs. Mabel Lazinski, Mrs. John Fellecker, Mrs. Travis Seese, Mrs. Clinton Stout and Miss Kathryn Counterman.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

It isn't polite to laugh at anyone, I know. And one never, never NEVER laughs at a customer. But I did yesterday. Couldn't help it. Breezing out of Mr. Kerlin's office, I practically tumbled headlong over a business like little miss striding toward the stairway, and fairly bustling with importance. She was so little, so self assured, and so completely unexpected, I couldn't help laughing, even though it did earn me a questioning glance from her mother. "The size of her," I said, and she nodded in friendly understanding. Can you remember what a wonderful feeling it was—just one week before Christmas—when you were four years old? The world was your oyster and you somehow KNEW you'd get everything you had mentioned to Santa.

Dear Santa. Will you please bring me for Christmas at least a dozen of our beautiful Wyckoff hankies? I'd like the white hanky with the inch wide hem and the candy canes embroidered in every corner; the print hanky with all kinds of toys and the words "Merry Christmas;" the Swiss embroidered hanky with the scalloped edge and borders of poinsettia; the all-white Belgian hanky trimmed with lace, and that other hanky with a lavish design of holly berries and leaves, plus any others that you may choose. I love you, Santa. M.M.

P.S. I would also be grateful if you would take my cold away with you or bring a box of tissues so I needn't soil those hankies.

F.F.S.: And if you plan to fill a stocking for me, please bring the stocking. Nylon (by the pair), of course. I am trying to be VERY good—until Christmas.

THIS AND THAT
Speaking of hosiery, reminds me of the tremendous rush yesterday in Laura Fabel's department where not one but TWO bell ringing two hour specials had been scheduled. Those bell ringers are actually selling out with bells on, because smart customers recognize real values. There are eleven scheduled for this morning—oh happy shopping day! . . . The wonder that shines forth from the eyes of a child is truly a wonderful thing, isn't it? I suppose that's why everyone stopped to look time and again at the tiny girl standing at the top of our stairs humming "Santa Claus is Coming to Town," as she studied the figure of Santa in his sleigh, against a backdrop of starry sky . . . Here's news for the person seeking a gift for someone who likes a "soft," easy life. Our drapery department just received a big shipment of sofa pillows, as stunning as any you've ever seen. If Santa is still reading this column, I'll take a pair of those covered in gold satin. (Santa, you'll recall is the fellow who will surely recognize the importance of a nice plump cushion here and there.)

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Ray Steele, the guy who carried the East Stroudsburg High School basketball team last year, was the hero of last Monday's basketball classic between East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and Ithaca College, in which the Warriors won in the last second of play, 64-62. It was the second win in three trips to the hardwood and officially stamped the ESSTC cage machine as a well rounded basketball contingent that will probably cause plenty of trouble before the present campaign passes into history.

Steele, stretching the tape to something like six feet, four inches, stepped to the foul line, with less than a second remaining in the game, and calmly sank two charity tosses to break a 62-62 deadlock and give the home team the victory. Ray, as has been his custom for the past three years, played brilliantly in the second half, scoring 10 of his 11 points in the third and fourth rounds. The big East Stroudsburg High grad has played the distance in the past two games.

The guys who apparently know this game of basketball have been saying that Steele's only true weakness in the court sport is his inability to consistently hit the mark on foul shots. However, the same Steele had nerves like his name, and was the picture of calmness as he stood at the free-throw line, with a small but wild crowd in an uproar around him, and "zipped" the cork twice to decide the game, before being swamped by his overjoyous teammates. Ray also had 13 rebounds to his credit during the game, as his good play ranged from one end of the floor to the other.

However, Steele didn't do the job by himself by a long shot, as Ray "Casey" Kaseman, Joe Maiorillo and John Sloan came up with some of their best play of the campaign and the remaining members of the squad to see action came through with the right brand of basketball to make victory possible, although the Warriors blew a 10 point lead early in the final round. Although the court Warriors have averaged 63.3 points per game for the first three contests, against 61.6 for the opposition, and have won two of the contests played thus far, the college gym has been the scene of very small crowds for the two home games played thus far this season.

ESSTC is presenting a fast moving, good shooting well schooled cage machine this season, one that may or may not have an outstanding campaign. The club has size and speed to burn and its play has been well balanced and pleasing to the people who have watched the team play this year. I feel certain that anyone watching the Warriors in action this season will enjoy their play very much. However, the club is now in the midst of its annual vacation that splits up the basketball season and undoubtedly hurts the club.

A representative of Penn. State was in East Stroudsburg last night to speak with John "Juice" Arnet, Joe Shea and Dick Merring, with regards to attending the State College school starting next September. Arnet and Shea held down the tackle positions and Merring ran out of the left half-back post with the East Stroudsburg High school football team that won eight and lost only one contest last season. It was also learned this week that the University of Indiana is also interested in Shea and Merring, in addition to Arnet, as mentioned in this column previously.

Dick Owens, who earned his basketball spurs at Stroudsburg High, is holding down a guard position on the Susquehanna University basketball team this season. Dick scored four points, on one field and two foul shots, against Wesley College, of Dover, Del., recently. Wesley went on to win by a 58-54 count. Al Pelham and Dick Bevil Jr. presented Bill Bailey with a Christmas present yesterday, on behalf of the football star's many friends in this area. Bailey is hopeful of getting back into basketball action in the very near future, as he and Karl Weingartner have been on the sidelines since the beginning of the campaign with leg injuries.

Monday's scheduled basketball game at Stroudsburg High, featuring the Stroudsburg junior varsity and Chestnut Hill varsity was called off in order to allow a showing of travel slides at the W. Main St. school. Jack Platt, the 167 pounder on the Lehigh wrestling team is a resident of Mt. Pocono. Jack, who lost a decision to Cornell's Otis Keller, by a 5-4 score, last Saturday, is currently in his third year of wrestling at the Bethlehem school.

John Vasco, a native of Scarsdale, N. Y., has been named golf pro at the Lehigh Valley Country Club and will take over his new position on Sunday, March 1. Frank Minch, assistant pro at Shawnee-on-Delaware for the past two years, was in the running for the Lehigh Valley position right to the end. Vasco is currently pro at the Madison, O., club during the summer months, but is an assistant in Florida during the winter.

Portland, Tatamy Baseball Teams Honored

Large Crowd Attends Blue Mountain Fete

Stockertown—Seven of the eight teams in the Blue Mountain League were represented here at the circuit's annual banquet last night, with Pocono A. C. being the only club not having a representative on hand. The roast beef dinner was served in the Stockertown Fire House.

Two teams and four individuals were honored at the affair, which featured Armon Williams, league secretary, as master of ceremonies. Portland, the 1952 pennant winner, received The Daily Record trophy for the regular season championship, while Woodrow A. Jones, league president, awarded the President's Cup to Tatamy, the number two club in the final standings, for winning the playoff crown.

Williams also presented individual awards to the two batting and pitching leaders. Howard "Howie" Gutshall, Tatamy, and Mike Renaldo, Roseto, were first and second in the plate averages, with .438 and .437 marks respectively.

Pitchers George Jackson and Bill "Lefty" Greenamoyer, both of Portland, were the leading pitchers with marks of 6-0 and 7-2 respectively. Remarks were heard from Dominic Spagnola, Bangor, first president of the league, and Glenwood T. Lewis, Bangor police chief, who is a former vice president.

Rev. Floyd Schafer, of the Forks Valley Evangelical and Reformed Church, gave the invocation and spoke briefly to the gathering of 110 people.

Movies, through the courtesy of the New York Yankees and Nash Motor Co., were shown following the dinner. The two films were entitled "How to Become a Yankee" and "Home of Champions." Dick Kryhoski, first baseman for the St. Louis Browns, was unable to appear as the guest speaker because of the illness of his wife.

Judge Rules Against Martin

Oakland, Calif., (AP)—A $2,658 judgment was rendered yesterday against Billy Martin, 24, New York Yankee second baseman, and a companion for injuries suffered by a motorist in a traffic dispute.

Superior Judge Chris B. Fox awarded the judgment, after a short trial, to Sterling Darden, 27, a salesman of Alameda, Calif., who had sought $12,000 damages in a civil suit.

The incident occurred in Alameda April 16, 1951, when Martin still was in the Army.

Wisconsin Arrives For Rose Bowl Tilt

Pasadena, Calif., (AP)—Wisconsin's Rose Bowl squad—44 bulky Badgers, plus coaches, trainers and similar extra help—flew in yesterday in a rainstorm.

Immediately, the team was swept into the Rose Bowl pattern. Loaded aboard buses, it was brought here from the landing field, Lockheed Air Terminal in Burbank, for a reception complete with Tournament of Roses Queen Leah Feland and her court.

Graham Upset Over Ring Talk

Greenwood Lake, N. Y., (AP)—Billy Graham is burned about talk he's "all washed up" just because he lost a couple of tough fights. They called him the "uncrowned champion" in 1951 after he lost a bitterly disputed suit decision to Kid Gavilan at Madison Square Garden. But defeats by Joey Giardello at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway and Gavilan at Havana changed their tune.

Teams Five, One Win In Biddy League

Teams Five and One had little trouble in running up victories in the Biddy Basketball League at the Monroe County YMCA yesterday. Team Five won over Team Six in the first half of the double-header, 23-11, while Team One rolled over Team Three in the nightcap, 32-20.

The first game found Team Six leading 4-3 at the end of the first period and 7-5 at halftime, only to have Team Five come up with a one-sided show in the second half to win going away.

It was a different story in the second game on the agenda, as Team One took a three-point edge at the end of the first round and held the upper hand the remainder of the distance, although outscored in the third stanza.

Moore Wins Light-Heavy Ring Title From Maxim

St. Louis, (AP)—Grim-faced, determined Archie Moore made up for years of bitter frustration last night by battering Light-heavyweight Champion Joe Maxim into a bleeding hulk to win the 175-pound title by unanimous decision.

Ignored by one champion after another for over five years, the "uncrowned champion" made it official last night by blasting the steel-chinned, 30-year-old Clevelander with a blistering barrage of punches from beginning to end.

A roaring crowd of 12,610 in the St. Louis Arena and millions more along the coast to coast television beam, watched the powerful 36-year-old Negro score his one-sided triumph.

Thus Moore became the oldest light-heavyweight king since Ruby "Bob" Fitzsimmons grabbed the crown at the age of 41. Maxim's defeat came in his third defense of the crown he won nearly three years ago.

The challenger, fired up for his big moment, rocked the champion in the very first round, staggered him often afterwards but couldn't bring the game Maxim down.

At the finish, Maxim was bleeding from cuts under both eyes, from a gash on his left cheek bone and from the nose. There was no doubt as to what the decision was going to be.

Judge Howard Hess scored it 82-68; Judge Fred Connell had it 87-63 while Referee Harry Kessler, who kept up a running fire of chatter throughout the fight, had it surprisingly close, 76-74.

The Associated Press had Moore the winner, 87-63, giving Moore 12 rounds, Maxim two and calling one even. One of the rounds, the fourth, went to Joey because of a low blow.

Moore, who was out-weighted, 174½ to 172½, was the eight to five favorite when the nationally telecast bout got under way. But after the seventh round, you could have gotten a 100 to one on the battered champion.

The challenger, who has lost only one fight in nearly three and one-half years, poured on the pace in a relentless fashion. Fighting out of a crouch, he whaled Maxim's body with devastating body punches that took the spring out of Maxim's legs, cut his face to ribbons, and rocked him in almost every round after the seventh.

When Maxim held on for dear life, Moore snarled at him: "Fight," Maxim just held.

All that Maxim could offer were his occasional left jabs and short left hooks plus a few rights that just brought a smile to Moore's face.

The crowd which contributed to a record St. Louis gate of $59,487, at times roared for Moore to "put him away" and to Maxim to "hold on."

A scowl on his face, Archie gave an indication of what was to come in the very first round when he smashed a terrific right in Maxim's jaw. The champion shook all over and then held.

Maxim came back in the second round to earn it by a slight edge with his jabs and hooks at the aggressive, incoming Moore. The third was almost similar but Moore scored with his body barrages.

Moore shook up Joey again in the fourth with a right to the chin that was heard all the way to the rear of the arena. He followed up with vicious left hooks that hurt.

One of Moore's blows was low and Referee Kessler ordered the round taken away from Moore. Moore was warned twice in the sixth round to "keep them up" but that didn't keep him from aiming his searing bombs to the body. He whacked the champion's mid-section and sides until they were red.

The booming body blows took the steam from Maxim and from then on he didn't have a chance. It was just a question of whether Joey could keep from being knocked down or out. The swarthy champion held his feet although he was hurt time and again.

"As I told the commissioner, I'm not looking for any arguments with anybody but I have to live honestly with myself. That's the way I felt about it then and that's the way I feel about it now.

"Please remember this, I didn't bring it up. I was just asked a question and I merely answered it simply and honestly. But why all the fuss? Nothing more would have been said about it if the Yankees hadn't blown it up."

Faulty Scales, Arguments Mark Meeting

By Murray Rose

St. Louis, (AP)—A threat by challenger Archie Moore's manager "to call the fight off," a double weigh-in for champion Joe Maxim, a faulty scale and lots of screaming enlivened the weigh-in yesterday for last night's 15-round light heavyweight title scrap at the Arena.

The confusion started when Johnston noticed that the scales were not sealed and insisted that he would not permit his 36-year-old challenger to weigh in unless the scales were tested and approved by the city's weights and measures experts.

The weight men were summoned but when they didn't arrive by 12:58 p. m. (EST), Jack "Doc" Kearns, manager of the champ, insisted that Maxim be weighed immediately. Commissioner Charley Pian of the Missouri Athletic Commission agreed.

On Nose

Maxim then tipped the beam at exactly 175½—the division limit. Johnston, however, declared that Moore would not weigh in until the scales were checked and that Maxim would have to weigh once more. Kearns turned to Pian and asked: "Maxim's weight is official, ain't it?"

Pian said Yes. Kearns ordered Maxim to dress. Later and, after much tinkering, they said the scales were a half pound light, and that Maxim's actual weight was 175½. Later, it turned out they meant the opposite—that the scales were a half pound heavy. When Maxim weighed 175½ it actually meant he weighed 174½.

When Moore was weighed in at 172½, Johnston vehemently insisted that Maxim be weighed again. The champ already had started to dress and had swallowed some beef tea.

Kearns, on edge all the way, said that Maxim would not weigh again.

"Then the fight's off," screamed Johnston. He and Pian engaged in a shouting match. Finally Kearns permitted Maxim to step on the scales again and he weighed 174½ pounds.

After reluctantly accepting the weights as official, Johnston yelled to Pian "It's a cinch we're not going to get the best of it tonight."

Turpin Drops One Of Four Fight Crowns

London (AP)—Randy Turpin abdicated as European light-heavyweight boxing champion yesterday, apparently in hopes of clearing the way for a world middleweight bout with reluctant Sugar Ray Robinson.

Robinson, the New York dandy who holds the world title, now is engaged in a night club act and may not fight again. The two have broken even in two previous title meetings.

Three Titles

Turpin, however, still is a triple titleholder, wearing the British, British Empire and the European middleweight crowns.

Should middleweight Robinson decide to fight again, it is likely that Turpin would be his opponent. Next June has been discussed as a probable date.

Seixas, Trabert Favored To Defeat Italians In Tennis

Sydney, Australia, (AP)—Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert are heavily favored to score opening singles victories today when the United States Davis Cup tennis forces meet Italy in the inter-zone finals.

Seixas, the sharp-volleying Philadelphian who heads the U. S. team, plays Italy's top performer, Fausto Gardini, in the opening match. Trabert, the Cincinnati sailor on leave, faces the 36-year-old veteran, Gianni Cucelli.

The Italians, so pessimistic about their chances, booked seats for home on Sunday night's plane. The Americans, on the other hand, made reservations to Adelaide, where the challenge round with Australia will be played December 29-31.

The Editor
The Daily Record
Stroudsburg, Pa.
Attn: Mr. J. Riley

Dear Jim:
After being called a chad and chicken and being accused of not having the GUTS to sign my name by REFERENCE Tom Carmella I feel I should defend myself.

Though I do not know the pattern a ball should take to put it in a position for a lay up, or do I know how many shots this one or that one took before scoring, I do know that I like to see a game of competition and last Friday's game was a walkover for Hellertown.

As a humorous aspect to this matter I asked this question the other night, Q—How did you like that basketball game Friday? Ans.—That was basketball!

I did not write the letter published in Monday's paper to have personal attention, publicity or glory of my knowledge brought to me but only to express my feelings as a member of the paying public.

May I ask how much time the seniors played in the first two games of the year, as I am not in a habit of taking a piece of paper and pencil to a game with me to keep an accurate record of such vital statistics? As personal feelings of Dick Foster or the seniors are concerned, I went to school with them and they are all tops. However, Del Davis seems to be doing an excellent job of building on the freshman and sophomore level so Mr. Foster should have no difficulty in producing with the material that comes to him, why should he pick green boys and drop experience for experiments? I doubt very much if Mr. Kist is going to drop all senior football players next year because he has no one to fill Mering's, Arnt's, Shea's, Albert's, Lift's and all the rest's shoes. Nor will he get up and tell them either you produce or you're out.

All in all whether Mr. Foster was justified in his actions or not, in my opinion as a spectator he was not fair enough to the boys to give them playing time to prove their worth and as I said before my refusal to sign my name was not a matter of guts but a matter of public feeling about a public school activity.

Respectfully yours,
Ray Silver

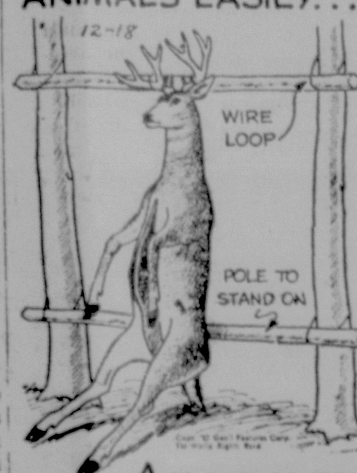

Not Happy
The Italians were far from happy over the draw. Manager Pino Bono said, "it makes it tough for us from the start. Had Gardini met Trabert first we would have had a much better chance."

Around 10,000 Australians are expected to pour into White City Stadium for the three-day inter-zone finals. The doubles will be played tomorrow, with Seixas and Trabert probably meeting Cucelli and Marcellino Del Bello. The other two singles are scheduled Saturday.

The American team isn't talking much but is quietly confident of an easy win over the Italians. Seixas and Trabert have been practicing hard. They have two good reserves in Straight Clark and Ham Richardson.

Pocono Manor Representative Shoots Four Under Par Figure In International Tourney

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP)—Skip Alexander, St. Petersburg, Fla., and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, fired seven under par 65s yesterday to pace the field in a pro-amateur curtain-raiser to the $13,000 International Four-Ball Golf Tournament.

The pros played yesterday in a field that included several movie actors and a number of baseball and tennis stars. Alexander and Ferrier divided $1,225 for shooting the low scores among the pros.

In the team competition, a four-some headed by pro Milton Marusic of Herkimer, N. Y., won with a best-ball score of 53. Other members of the team were Don Dawson, New York; Edward Brickley, Detroit, and Richard Fincher, Miami.

Entries
Thirty-two pro teams, including twosomes from England, Hawaii and Canada, will open the four-ball tournament today at the 6,657-yard Normandy Isle course. The top prize in the charity event for the benefit of Miami Beach hospitals will be $1,700 for each member of the winning team. The tournament will wind up Sunday.

Defending champions are Pete Cooper, White Plains, N. Y., and Claude Harmon, Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Jack Burke, Houston, Tex., winner of last week's Miami open, will be teamed with Jimmy Demaret, Concord, N. Y.

Low scores among the pros in yesterday's play included Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., 34-34-68.

Layne To Test Injured Leg

Detroit (AP)—Bobby Layne, the Detroit Lion quarterback who sometimes confuses foes because he runs with the ball instead of passing, will test his injured leg with full-scale sprints this morning for the first time in four days.

Layne and his leg are important to the Lions' hopes of beating the Los Angeles Rams Sunday.

The Lions need his running ability as well as passing. Since Layne stretched a ligament and limped from the field Saturday against the Dallas Texas, he has run slowly in all workouts.

No Stiffness
He reported no stiffness or pain. But today he'll run at full speed for the first time. If anything is wrong, Bobby will feel it, too.

then. The Lions' title hopes will feel it, too.

Layne's is the team's second best ground-gainer and the Lions would likely enter the post-season, tie-breaking National Conference playoff as slight favorites if he can operate at full ability.

But if Bobby—the number one passer and number one inspirational force—can't run well, the Lions would likely be underdogs in the scrap to see who faces the American Conference Champion Cleveland Browns in the National Football League title game December 28 at Cleveland.

A few hours after the crucial test the Rams will arrive by plane.

Chauncey Moore doubles as a "Christmas stork" as he contacts a childless home in an effort to have one or more of these under-privileged children "adopted" for the big holiday.

Holiday Children, Inc., Provides Cheer On Christmas For Needy Tulsa Youngsters

By Marian Rogers

(Central Press Correspondent)
Tulsa, Okla. — Sometimes it doesn't take much to make a Christmas miracle—just the tears of lonely people, some ragged slum tykes and a man like Chauncey Moore who has a heart as big as Santa's pack.

Moore, a Tulsa probation officer, is the founder of Holiday Children, Inc., a new kind of "corporation" which adopts needy youngsters into foster homes for Christmas. It is run from a file cabinet, has no charter and its stockholders are couples who long for a child's laughter on Christmas morning.

The plan reaps a golden harvest. Slum kids find dolls, fire trucks, and college educations under the Christmas tree. Unemployed fathers get jobs and tired, overworked mothers believe again in Christmas angels. Most of all, it's everybody's program. "Adopting" parents include millionaires, office clerks, physicians, oil men, carpenters and people from all walks of life.

Each year Moore wraps up the old Christmas story in shining new hope and makes the cynical feel an inner glow that they thought was forever lost. The genial, silver-haired probation officer finds the children, okays the Christmas visit and handles the details.

Since 1947 Moore has given "dream" Christmases to 325 needy youngsters. Last year a bumper crop of 73 was harvested and Moore expects more under-privileged children to participate this year.

Moore's Christmas career began in December, 1947. He was chatting with a couple in his office while a Tulsa World reporter waited outside to see him. Moore remarked with a heavy sigh that children of parents on probation from prison sentences generally grow up under tragic conditions—evil companions, filthy, disease-infected homes and neglect.

Listening to Moore, the woman felt sick at heart. She and her husband were childless and had tried for years to adopt a child. Impulsively she plucked at Moore's sleeve. "Please," she said. "Please get us a child like that." The tears blurred the words.

Now Chauncey Moore is a big Scots-Irishman with a heart as soft as melted custard. Also childless, he knew how his friends felt but he also knew the rigid structure of present adoption laws. How could he help?

Maybe the angels whispered in Moore's ear. Suddenly he wondered why a needy child couldn't be placed in the couple's home—just for Christmas.

Moore outlined his plan and offered to supply the child. "Show his what a real Christmas can be like," he suggested. "Buy toys. Stuff him with turkey. Make a real spree out of it!"

The idea caught the couple's fancy. Eagerly they agreed. After they left the office, Moore sat at his desk, thinking rapidly. He forgot about the waiting reporter who had heard every word. Already worried about his promise, Moore grinned wryly at reporter John Ammon when he walked into the room.

"I've stuck my neck out, John," Moore said. "I'll be just like looking for a needle in a haystack." Moore groaned. The newsman shook his head. "No, it won't, Chauncey," he remarked cheerfully. "I'll write up a story. Maybe some needy family will help us out."

That night John Ammon wrote up the story. The city editor read it and then stared into space, thinking of the new bicycle he'd bought for his boy. Then he carefully gave the story a front-page spot and sent it to the composing room.

Next morning Moore found himself in the role of Christmas stork.

Holding his big book, Santa checks names against toys at assembly line.

Some Say St. Nick Lives In Ohio, Not At North Pole

Cincinnati, Ohio — Most people will insist that Santa Claus lives at the North Pole. Not so with the children—and the grownups—of Cincinnati, who claim that Santa lives in Rossmore, just 12 miles north of here.

And right they might be, for the man they all claim to be Santa Claus looks like him, acts like him, and even works in a toy factory.

The man's name is Everett E. Cook, a hefty 230-pounder with a merry grin who likes to put on his bright red suit, wig and whiskers. For the past five years, Cook has been popping in and out of Christmas parties sponsored by fraternal organizations or friends and spreading Christmas cheer to small fry. Although he was opposed to the idea at first, Cook wouldn't miss a chance to play Santa Claus, no matter what the circumstances.

It all started by accident in 1947. The people in the toy plant where he works were making plans for the annual Christmas party for the employees. Plans were going along well until somebody suggested that it would really be a bang-up party, except that Santa Claus wouldn't be there.

A hurried survey of available people by the committee in charge of arrangements for the party, and Cook was nominated to play the role of the famous gentleman with the gift-full pack on his back. He was reluctant to act the role, but he finally agreed to rent a costume and be the gift-giver.

It's Santon Time In France; Creche Makers Prepared For Celebration Of Christmas

In the Mediterranean countries and throughout most of Roman Catholic Europe, Christmas is not often symbolized by the decorated tree, by Santa Claus with his reindeer, nor by holly nor snow nor bells. The imagery that inspires these people at the most important season is the birth of Christ, the manger and the adoration of the shepherds and kings.

In Italy it is called "Il Presepe"—in Austria "die Krippe"—in France "La Creche." Many French churches have a Nativity group sculptured in stone or wood, a permanent monument usually to be found back of the high altar, around which, during the days between Christmas and Epiphany, numerous ceremonies take place, varying with the local customs.

In Provence, however, an elaboration of this formality has developed into a tradition, an art, and a craft that now supplies all of France with tiny clay figurines that may be set up in each home. Every year on Dec. 4—the Fete of St. Barbara—the santon market opens in Marseille on the Cours St. Louis. In gaily colored booths, santon makers from the neighboring towns and villages put out for sale the little statuettes they have been making during the year.

These santons vary in height from a foot or more down to a fraction of an inch. The diminutive sizes are designated as cigales, mouche, puce, demipuce, even quart de puce—meaning cricket, fly, flea, half-flea and quarter-flea. It's an Old Custom Santon makers or "santoniers" often have another profession as well; baker, potter, painter, carpenter, Julien of Aix, for instance, who took over the molds from Jourdan in 1833, and created santons until his death in 1888, was a drum maker.

Today, the making of santons is largely a family affair. In winter evenings young and old sit together before the fire kneading clods of clay, pushing them into plaster molds, letting the clay dry or baking it, and then painting them in clear and vibrant colors.

Who are the santons? They represent the Holy Family, the beasts of the stable, the shepherds, the kings, and the motley colored horde of peasants and rural people bearing gifts in their arms.

Grottoes and Settings
Every French household has a table on which the santons are arranged. Grottoes are made of paper. A hill of moss has a windmill. A stable of cardboard has a window. A well, a bridge and a sanctuary are generally part of the mise en scene. The Kings do not join the creche until Epiphany. The whole pageant is a fusion of

Post, Editor Sue Winchell For $1,525,000

New York (AP) — Walter Winchell, columnist and commentator, was sued for libel yesterday in twin suits totaling $1,525,000 brought in Supreme Court by the New York Post and its editor.

Wechsler is seeking $775,000 damages and the Post $750,000.

The suits charge Winchell tried in his syndicated column and in radio and television broadcasts to convey the impression the Post and Wechsler were supporters of the Communist party and disloyal to the U.S.

Also named as defendants were the American Broadcasting Co., the Green Watch Co., the Hearst Corp., and King Features Syndicate. ABC carries Winchell's Sunday night radio and television broadcasts, sponsored by Green.

Wechsler charged that Winchell falsely said he "is now a member of the Communist party and had been such since prior to 1937." Wechsler said he was a member of the Young Communist League but resigned in 1937, and has since fought Communism.

There was no immediate comment from Winchell or the other defendants.

Pontecorvo's Sisters Attend Red Congress

Vienna (AP) — Two sisters of Bruno Pontecorvo, missing British atom scientist, are attending the Communist-sponsored World Peace

There has been much Western speculation that Pontecorvo voluntarily went to Moscow to work for the Russians when he disappeared in Helsinki in September, 1950.

Also present at the peace congress is another former scientist in Britain's atomic research station at Harwell—Hungarian-born Lajos Janossy, who deserted the West to work for the Budapest Communists.

Austrian police reports said the two Pontecorvo sisters are Laura, a naturalized British subject, and Giuliana Tabet, wife of an official of the Italian Communist party.

Solid Front For Economy In Foreign Aid May Face Eisenhower In Congress

By Charles F. Barrett

Washington, GP — Incoming congressmen are sounding a heavy chorus of calls to cut United States foreign aid programs.

In an Associated Press survey, 90 per cent of senators and representatives willing to take a stand wanted to reduce American assistance to free world allies in the battle against Communism.

Some protested hotly against what they called waste and poor results in the outpouring of $7.5 billion dollars during the past 12 years. Some others defended it as providing the most defense per dollar.

Suggestions included a complete new study to appraise the whole program, making loans instead of outright grants, a shift in emphasis from Europe to the Middle and Far East, doing away with economic aid grants but keeping military assistance and the Point Four Program of technical know-how to help backward nations help themselves.

The almost solid lineup for economy in foreign aid may confront President-elect Eisenhower with one of his first and toughest problems in dealing with the Republican-Controlled Congress.

Only six months ago Eisenhower was commander of Mutual Security Forces in Europe. He said then that cuts below $6,000,000,000 in foreign aid appropriations this fiscal year ending June 30 might "endanger the proposed military buildup . . . which I consider essential in the interest of U. S. security."

After bitter battles, Congress finally appropriated six billion for the year. President Truman's budget had asked for eight billion. Counting funds left over from previous years, actual spending this year may run from six to seven billion.

Extension of the aid program is one of the first items on the agenda for the new Congress, convening Jan. 3, and it's sure to kick up a big debate.

Because of his experience in this field and the prestige of his political triumph, Eisenhower will have strong influence. But even Eisenhower, if he tries may have trouble holding back some Republicans and Southern Democrats who led slashing attacks on foreign aid in the past and who seem primed for another try.

No Major Cut In Taxes Is Likely Soon

Washington, GP — Scores of incoming congressmen are raising a go-slow signal on moves to cut the government's record tax take. Responding to an Associated Press poll, 54 per cent of the House members and 74 per cent of the senators who took a definite stand said something like this:

"They're either flatly against major tax cuts now or at least they want to wait, to give Congress time to try to cut federal spending and balance the budget first. This sentiment raises a prospect that major tax reductions, championed by Republicans in the presidential campaign, may not come before 1954.

But many lawmakers, especially in the House, voiced a cry of resentment against high taxes and obviously like to pass on reductions to voters as soon as possible.

Morse Favors Sen. Taft For Floor Leader

Wichita, Kan. (GP) — Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon independent, said yesterday he favors Sen. Robert A. Taft for Senate majority leader because the Ohio Republican "unlike Eisenhower, does not compromise his principles."

Here for a student forum speech at the University of Wichita last night, Morse told a reporter:

"If I were a member of the Republican caucus in the Senate I would support him (Sen. Taft) for floor leader. I believe the responsibility for leadership should be put on him."

"I disagree with Sen. Taft on the merits of many issues but I have the highest respect for Sen. Taft's devotion to his convictions."

More Funds Sought For T-B Control

Harrisburg (AP)—The head of Pennsylvania's anti-tuberculosis campaign said yesterday the 1953 General Assembly will be asked for an additional five million dollars to carry on a stepped-up drive against the disease.

Dr. M. C. Stayer, director of the Bureau of Tuberculosis Control in the State Health Department, said a request will be made for an appropriation of 17½ million dollars for the next biennium.

The bureau's 1951-53 appropriation, which is coupled with funds for the Elizabethtown Crippled Children's Hospital, amounted to $12,738,000. Stayer said about $800,000 goes to the children's hospital.

The additional funds for 1953-55 will provide the means for an intensive chest X-ray program throughout the state to aid in detecting TB cases in the early stages.

Nearly 300,000 free X-rays were snapped by the state in co-operation with tuberculosis societies in 1952, Stayer said. The new drive, which will concentrate on the Pittsburgh area beginning in March, is expected to round up a million persons in that area alone.

Reviewing the Pennsylvania's campaign to stamp out the disease, Stayer said noteworthy gains have been made recently. Facilities for treatment are being expanded, he said, and the waiting list for entry to hospitals reduced from 500 to 200 during the past year.

"This means that we need still more beds," he said, "and there still is a woeful and universal shortage of nurses for tuberculosis institutions."

One project aimed at reducing the nursing shortage, he said, is the production of a $25,000 film at Pennsylvania State College aimed at "taking the fear out of nursing tuberculosis."

A total of some 2,200 persons now are being cared for in the Commonwealth's four sanatoriums. This number will rise when the state comes into full possession of the Lankenau Hospital in Philadelphia next September.

Cresson, now remodeled, accommodates 680 patients, while Hamburg, also renovated, houses between 600 and 700. Mont Alto, caring for about 900, is "one of the finest hospitals of its kind in the nation," Stayer said.

Shirley Temple Takes Child Out Of School With Charge Of Attempt To Commercialize

Washington, (AP)—Ex-movie moppet Shirley Temple, angry at what she called an attempt to capitalize on the presence of her 4-year-old daughter in a kindergarten Christmas play, took her out of a private school yesterday.

"I have not and will not allow anyone to commercialize on my daughter's presence," said the young mother, now the wife of Lt. Chid. Charles Black.

Her action, she explained in a statement, was taken after she read a newspaper story that Linda Susan's appearance as a fairy in "Cinderella" Tuesday at Honeywell School was her stage debut and that she would make a repeat appearance tonight at the American University gymnasium.

Then, Mrs. Black said, she was "amazed" to find that news photographers had been called in to take pictures of the children yesterday.

Honeywell said Shirley brought her daughter's costume to the school and helped the child change into it.

"She was perfectly charming during the taking of the pictures," he added.

Honeywell said a photographer from Time magazine appeared with a local news photographer and Mrs. Black told the Time photographer that if the picture was used it must be made clear that Susan was only one in a school play cast.

"She didn't want it to look like a professional performance," he commented.

"I don't see why we are attacked this way," Honeywell said. "If Mrs. Black had said she didn't want Susan in the pictures we would have taken her out."

Susan, the daughter of Shirley's first husband, John Agar, is just a year older than her mother was when she began her sensational career as a movie star.

Fresh Air Girls Here For Holiday

Five young girls who were entertained in this section during the Summer in the New York Herald-Tribune's "fresh air fund" program, have returned to spend the Christmas holidays with their sponsors.

The children reached the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad station in East Stroudsburg at 12:21 p.m. yesterday and were met by their hosts. After participating in a real Monroe County Christmas, the girls will return to their respective homes at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 30.

Arrangements for the return visit were made by Mrs. John Wilson, chairman of the county fresh air program. Letters were sent to all hosts who entertained youngsters during the Summer, informing them to advise if they would like to fete the children over Christmas. Four persons responded, one woman asking for two youngsters, twin sisters.

On hand at the railroad station were: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith of W. Fourth St., East Stroudsburg, who have as their guest nine-year-old Beatrice Hayes, of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Neavel T. Weaver, of Stroudsburg, who has Gladys Colon, 11, also of Brooklyn, as her Christmas season guest.

Mrs. Jacob Hartman, of Stroudsburg RD2, is entertaining 12-year-old twins, Katherine and Regina Dresinski, of Manhattan.

Mrs. Karl G. Price, of Canadensis, has as her guest Minerva Cruz, 9, of the Bronx.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Newhart and children, of Allentown, and his sister, Mrs. Howard Randt and her daughter Judy, of Bethlehem, were weekend visitors at the home of Dr. Newhart's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Newhart.

Mrs. Thomas Brodhead, postmistress and her sister, Mrs. Mary Dolan, visited their sister-in-law, Mrs. Seldon Tramm and family at Lake Hopatcong, N.J., Sunday.

Mrs. Delbert Davis recently entertained Mrs. Lydia Mordovancy, of Wellsboro, Pa., who was a classmate at Mansfield State Teachers College five years ago. During the visit Mr. and Mrs. Davis took their guest to the Army and Navy football game. They all spent that weekend at West Point where Mrs. Mordovancy's brother is a cadet.

Lieta Jean Lightner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Lightner Jr., of Wallace Street, Stroudsburg, visited at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lightner, over the weekend. Sunday dinner guests at the Lightner home were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Transue of Henryville.

Visits To Three Sessions Highlights Tour Of United Nations By Class In Democracy

The 12A Democracy class of East Stroudsburg High School made an extremely successful trip through the United Nations organization in New York City on Tuesday, Mrs. Kathleen Butz, teacher of the class said yesterday.

One of the most unusual features of the visit, Mrs. Butz said, was that the students were able to visit three of the most important divisions of the U. N. during their one-day tour.

The first of these visits was made to the U. N. Political Committee during a period of heated and controversial debate on the question of Moroccan independence. Morocco, along with Tunisia, and other North African nations, is seeking independence from the French Colonial system.

During its visit to the committee, the class heard a portion of the dramatic appeal made by a representative of Morocco for a complete hearing on the question by the full committee.

A short time later eleven Latin-American nations submitted a ball game. They all spent that weekend at West Point where Mrs. Mordovancy's brother is a cadet.

Lieta Jean Lightner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Lightner Jr., of Wallace Street, Stroudsburg, visited at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lightner, over the weekend. Sunday dinner guests at the Lightner home were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Transue of Henryville.

resolution on Morocco. This new resolution would by-pass the Asian-Arab move for talks between France and the Sultan of Morocco and would substitute a request that the nations conduct their business in "an atmosphere of goodwill."

As the second stop on their full-scale tour of the U. N. building, the democracy class "sat in" with the Security Council during debate on the Indian plebiscite in which Pakistan agreed to allow 28,000 Indian troops in Kashmir during the election.

One of the most important actions occurring during the group's tour of the building and the visits to the three chambers came when the democracy class members were guests in the General Assembly.

Up before the Assembly at that time was a move to "reopen the convention on information" which, if passed, would compel individual governments to correct "false or distorted" news reports to which other governments have objected.

The maple trees in front of the Davis residence, corner of Main and Cherry Valley Streets, are being cut down by the Metropolitan Edison Company. The branches interfered with light wires and would in time become a nuisance to traffic, it was stated.

Prostitution was connected with the worship of many ancient gods and was often practiced in temples.

Opposing the move were the U. S., Britain, the Soviet bloc and several small Western nations. The move was passed, however, by a 25 to 22 majority.

Following their visit to the General Assembly, the class went on a full, guided tour of the building.

Other points of interest visited in New York included the NBC radio-television center, Radio City Music Hall, Cornell Medical Center and large New York department stores in the Herald Square section.

By virtue of the number of important meetings the students were allowed to hear at the U. N. (and the length of time they were able to "sit in") Mrs. Butz and the students joined in a report yesterday that the trip had been "a very successful one."

Newspapers Gave Almost Equal Play To Two Candidates

Harrisburg (AP) — Pennsylvania newspapers accorded nearly equal space to both presidential candidates in the recent general election, the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association reported yesterday.

William K. Ulerich, PNPA president and publisher of the Clearfield Progress, said a survey covering the period from Oct. 1 through Nov. 1 showed that the Keystone State gave "fair treatment" to the candidates. The 37 newspapers participating in the survey, the PNPA said, carried 13,979 inches of page one copy of Republican candidates' news and 15,272 inches of Democratic campaign material.

The reporting newspapers split their support this way: Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican, 29; Adlai Stevenson, Democrat, one; neutral, seven.

Drexel Tests Offered In East Borough

East Stroudsburg High School officials are offering again this year, on a voluntary basis, a series of tests administered and scored by the Drexel Institute of Technology.

The tests were given last year for the first time. Only junior students are included in the testing, according to a letter mailed to parents of those students this week by high school principal Ralph O. Burrows.

Whether the tests will be given this year depends largely upon the number of parents responding favorably to the idea, Burrows said yesterday.

Last year 32 juniors took the tests and 56 parents came to the school for interviews.

A tentative date has been set aside for the administration of the tests during which time a professor from Drexel Institute will be on duty at the local school.

Primary purpose of the tests is to help the student and his parents understand where the student's greatest interests and abilities lie.

Mrs. George Everett spotted a large buck near her home Monday.

Kiwanis Club Entertained By Choruses

The Girls Chorus and the Mixed Chorus of the Stroudsburg High School, 84 in number, furnished the program at the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club meeting in the Penn-Stroud Hotel yesterday afternoon. Numa J. Snyder, music instructor at the school, directed and Miss Ruth Fetherman was accompanist. Max D. Stadfeld was program chairman.

The program opened with two selections by the Girls' Chorus, "As It Fell Upon a Night," an English carol, arranged by Catherine Davis, and "Cradle Song of the Shepherds," Glatz folk song, arranged by Glaser.

The Mixed Chorus was heard in four numbers. First was "Hymnus Angelorum," Daley. In the second selection, "Carol of the Questioning Child," Kountz, there were two soloists, Beryl Godshall, an 8th grader, representing the child, and Clara Lou Harl, the angel.

The two final numbers were: "The Stable Door," Gibbs, and "A Song of Peace," a Welsh air, arranged by Catherine Davis. Gilbert L. Smrz, president of the club, expressed the appreciation of the members for the unusually fine program, a duplicate of the one to be given at Stroudsburg High School auditorium tonight at 9:15, to which the public is invited.

Lamont W. Hornbeck, manager of the Rea-Derick store, was welcomed as a new member by President Smrz. He is the successor to Harold W. Leininger, now located in Allentown.

Members signed get-well cards which were sent to Dr. Charles S. Flagler and John J. Cowley, patients at the Monroe County General Hospital.

The Christmas meeting of the club will be held next Tuesday at noon, instead of Wednesday, at 12:15 p.m., the usual time. John E. Watt is program chairman. There will be 75 children from 6 to 12 years of age from the Stroudsburg and outlying areas as guests. "Candy" and "Coco," two professional clowns, will furnish entertainment. The children will be presented with gifts by Santa Claus who will be present in person.

Leslie Drake will transport 35 young people from East Stroudsburg to the club and return in a bus and club members will transport 10 children from Smithfield school area. Club members will also act as "watchers for a day" to assist in looking after the little guests while at the meeting.

President Smrz welcomed William G. Beecher, of the Pottsville club, and Clinton Boushelt as guests. Key Clubbers Jim Barthold and Clark Foster were presented by Numa Snyder, Key Club adviser.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE

ALL IS JOY in the North Pole workshop of Santa Claus — every toy for every good girl and good boy throughout the world is finished and ready to be distributed Christmas Eve. Happy Santa thanks his Boss Helper.

THEN SANTA, brimming with good cheer, goes out to the Reindeer Corral to feed his eight trusty steeds before they start the Big Trip. But — what's this? — the reindeer are not there! They have disappeared completely!

SANTA looks and looks and looks but cannot find hide or horn of any of them. He follows their tracks in the snow. They lead straight to the shore of the Great Ice Sea. The reindeer have vanished but — why? how? where?

DISCOURAGED and heartbroken, Santa finally returns home. Without his reindeer he will not be able to bring all those wonderful toys to deserving children. It will be a sad Christmas Day indeed! (To Be Continued)

One Of First Telephones Was Installed In Portland

Portland—Back in 1887, when the telephone was "one of them thar new contraptions," this borough was among the first to have the communication installed. An account from the local paper of Dec. 5, 1887, tells the reaction: "There was considerable interest shown last week when the telegraph office here was connected with the office at Bangor by one of Prof. Bell's telephones, and talking and singing over the wire were kept up for sometime."

"Several songs were sung and whistled, each piece being easily recognized not only by the operator but by everyone in the room." "Mr. Clark Quick, the Portland operator, sang a number of pieces for the entertainment of the audience at the other end of the voice. A coal train went by during the performance, the noise of which could be heard in Bangor and the operator there asked what train was passing."

Makes a wonderful gift and a swell way to say "Merry Christmas"
